JURORS DESCRIBE BRIBE ATTEMPTS.

no of Schmitts Panel Testify at San Francisco Inquiry of Efforts Made.

San Francisco, July 20.—Allegations that repeated attempts were made to bribe two members of the jury which convicted Mayor Schmitt on the charge of extortion have been laid before the grand jury. The jurors involved are Royal W. Cudworth and Charles D. Gish, both of whom gave testimony at the present investigation.

Cudworth and his wife told the grand jury of the efforts that had been made to communicate with him while he was locked up at the St. Francis Hotel with his fellow jurors.

Juror Gish gave testimony showing that efforts had been made to reach him while the case was on trial. The grand jury also heard the evidence of D. M. Cappelli, a teamster in the employ of Cudworth, and of E. G. Griggs, whose story was of a corroborative nature. The grand jury is holding the matter under advisement.

Henry T. Scott, president of the Pacific States Telephone company, who is accused by Asst. Dist. Atty. Honey of seeking to mislead the prosecution in regard to the whereabouts of T. V. Halsey, and of being instrumental in preventing E. J. Zimmerman, vice-president of the company, from testifying in the Gish case, was called before the jury.

BOY'S BRAVERY.

Saved Life of Girl Near Lowell, Mass., Yesterday.

Tyngsboro, Mass., July 20.—Little Mabel Dawson, the 8-year-old daughter of Joseph Dawson of Duxbury, was saved from drowning in Lake Macauppie Thursday afternoon after she had fallen from a boat into the water opposite the Irons canoe club clubhouse.

John J. Marren, a 17-year-old member of the canoe club, was launching his craft at the club wharf, and was the only one to witness the accident. He dove into the water from the wharf and swam 20 feet, rescuing the child before the latter had gone down a second time. Young Marren did not need any assistance in taking the little one ashore, although it was offered him by people who had manned boats.

Marren lives in Lowell. He is an expert canoeist and swimmer. He is a member of the life saving crew recently formed by young men at the lake, and had practiced swimming with his clothes on many times. He attributes his good fortune in saving the child's life to the fact that he had prepared for just such an emergency.

Discussing land fraud, Justice Brewer declared that much of what is reported as fraud on the western land dealings is not at all wrong. He cited the fact that the Vanderbilt and other large estates were handed down as a whole, whereas now, scattering of estates is becoming the practice. "It is wisdom," said Justice Brewer, "to scatter estates among many and prevent large accumulations of property."

ALL NIGHT COURT FOR GAY GOTHAM.

Joins All Night Bank as One of the Necessities of Life in the Metropolis.

New York, July 20.—If you get arrested here after Aug. 1 you can be taken to court by electric light and have your case disposed of in time to get home before the women folks in the house become alarmed—that is, if you are set at liberty.

The night court begins business on that date. A man who gets into difficulty, say, in an all-night restaurant, can send around to an all-night bank and, if his credit is good, get money to pay his fine at the night court.

The night hawk cabmen expect to double their business when the court opens.

Catching Butterflies.

To catch butterflies you must reach out after them. As a rule you won't catch many in your hand. You must use a net. It is the net that scoops them in.

A hand reach in catching butterflies is no better than a handbill in catching business. It is the net that counts.

The net is the newspaper. This reaches out to all the people and scoops them in. Experience of several generations has shown that the newspaper is the best business bringer.

Take, for instance, this paper. (Most people take it.) An announcement in this paper goes into the homes of the people whom you must reach if you get the business you are after.

There is, indeed, a very much larger net that scoops in the business butterflies. It is stretched out not only over this community, but over every similar community in the land. It is the mail order net, made up of big catalogues and of advertisements in periodicals which are circulated broadcast to catch the unwary.

To prevent that great net—which is really an octopus with a thousand tentacles—from catching your trade away from you, wisdom suggests that you use your home net—the local newspaper.

Usually a word to the wise is sufficient. If you want to keep your patronage or build it up, you must compete with the butterfly catchers from the outside.

The Dollar is the Butterfly. It has green wings, and is attractive to merchants in the big cities just as it is attractive to you.

If you would catch these pretty butterflies that are circulating around home, you must use the net that circulates around home.

EVERY PART OF BIBLE DIVINE SAYS POPE

Errors of Theology of Modern Type Condemned by the Pontiff in Syllabus Just Issued.

Rome, July 20.—The syllabus promulgated by the Pope with regard to the so-called modernism in the faith contains a preamble which sets forth that Roman Catholic authors, under the pretext of examining dogmas, explain them in the name of history in such a fashion that the dogmas themselves disappear.

To succumb to such errors, the preamble says, the Pope has ordered a congregation of inquiry to note and reprove the principal errors, and with his approbation sixty-five propositions are condemned.

Here are some of the heresies put under the ban: "Divine inspiration does not guarantee all and every part of the Holy Scriptures against error."

"The resurrection of the Saviour is not a historical fact, but purely supernatural. It can neither be demonstrated, nor is it demonstrable."

"The Catholic church became the head of all churches not by Divine ordinance, but by purely political circumstances."

"The church is the enemy of natural and theological sciences."

"The Christian doctrine was first Judaic, then Pauline, then Hellenic, then universal."

"The principal articles of the Apostles' Creed had not the same significance to the primitive Christians as they have to the Christians of the present time."

DISCRIMINATION BY EIGHT ROADS ALLEGED.

Coal Men Want Federal Board to Cut Rates—Lehigh Charge Excessive.

Washington, D. C., July 20.—In a complaint filed with the interstate commerce commission today, the whole question of the control and operation of anthracite mines in the Wyoming region of Pennsylvania is presented for adjudication by the commission.

The petition was filed by Meeker & Co., independent coal operators, against the Lehigh Valley railroad. The petitioners assert that the rates charged for the transportation of coal to Perth Amboy, N. J., are excessive, unreasonable and discriminatory.

For many years, it is asserted, the eight coal carrying railroads have owned and controlled large tracts of coal lands, and have been engaged in mining and dealing in anthracite; and "in this manner," the petition continues, "the said companies control the eastern market for a large proportion of the anthracite annually mined."

The commission is asked to fix a minimum coal carrying charge and to award damages of $221,473.

EYES ON TEN BIG TRUSTS

Uncle Sam Still Looking Into Combines

STEEL AND STEAMSHIPS

Another Report Coming as to Methods of Standard Oil Powder Trust Prosecution Is Now Promised.

Washington, D. C., July 20.—The shutters have been put up in all the offices of trust inquiry, although the July exodus from official Washington is almost universal. A few delvers remain.

When the cool autumn comes again more disclosures of trust inquiries are promised, with convenient release dates on the outer pamphlet pages.

The bureau of corporations is doing most of the midsummer delving. Its agents, of number unknown are scouring the country. They are doing in another way a kind of work that the industrial commission did a decade ago.

The present inquiries are generally more secret. Special agents go out to the producers and consumers. They procure information from willing witnesses or wrest it from men by detective methods, as occasion may require. They are still scouring for information about the lumber trust—an inquiry that is nearly nation-wide.

The Standard Oil inquiry is still under way at the bureau. Another exhaustive report—the third to be made public—is expected before many days. It will bear on the prices and the profits of the oil business.

Later there will be a report on an investigation of new oil fields in the interior of the country and in California. Agents of the department are yet in Europe, Africa and the Orient studying the oil trade. A report on the operations of the Standard Oil company in those distant markets may be ready before Congress assembles.

All told, the bureau of corporations is peering away at 10 trust inquiries. They effect lumber and oil, as stated, tobacco, steel, harvesters, coal, textile, canals, cotton exchanges, patents and telegraphs. Several of these inquiries are being conducted at the instance of Congress.

Atty-Gen. Bonaparte is expected to prosecute the harvest trust, and on that account the search for facts about that combination is now being pushed aggressively.

Commissioner Smith recently visited Chicago, where his agents are said to have ascertained that John D. Rockefeller has $50,000,000 invested in that enterprise for manufacturing of agricultural machinery and controlling the price of wheat.

The steel trust with a capitalization of a billion dollars, and with mills and factories that cost hundreds of millions to build, has been immune from government attacks. The bureau of corporations, however, is after information about its operations.

The inquiries about the coastwise traffic and about canals have been in progress for many months. The search is emphasizing the ownership of these means of water transportation by the railroads to an unexpected degree. The tramp steamers have been given a hard fight by the railroads.

Coastwise steamship lines are railroad-owned in New England, along the three Pacific Coast states, from mainland ports to the isthmus of Panama, and also on the Great Lakes.

The patent inquiry is of considerable interest in Congress, where the demands for larger army and navy appropriations are pressing. The smokeless powder patents, which were developed at government expense by Rear Admiral Canby, a Vermont, now on the retired list, and Capt. Bernadou, after long investigations at Newport, R. I., have passed to the powder trust, which the department of justice has decided to prosecute.

Those officers sold the rights, subject only to a provision that the navy might manufacture smokeless for its own use. That is supposed to shut out the war department. Independent companies are now excluded from bidding on government powder contracts.

The investigation must be completed before the next session of Congress adjourns. They will figure in the campaign, as trusts and trust prosecutions will be a prominent feature of that contest.

The great man of the trust-busting world of Washington, Milton D. Burly, assistant to the attorney general, has locked the door of his office and fled to Europe. Papers in all trust prosecutions pass through his hands before reaching the attorney general or the President.

AN OBLIGING WAITER.

He Got the Five Dishes, and He Got Them in Record Time.

He was a stranger in town. The clerk of the hotel had neglected to call him until twenty minutes after the requested hour, and as a consequence he had but a short time for breakfast before he must leave for his train.

Going into the dining room, he watched the formality of having the chair leisurely pushed under him by the head waiter, and, accosting one of the dinky servers, he commanded hurriedly:

"Go to the kitchen and get me a breakfast—five dishes of anything that is ready—and get it quick!"

As the order was accompanied by a medium sized piece of silver the waiting man had reason to expect a fairly good meal.

And as to speed of delivery he was not disappointed. In an incredibly short time the negro reappeared, bearing aloft a tray on which sat five dishes, remarkable only for their similarity of size and shape. When the tray was lowered sufficiently to bring the contents of the dishes into focus the traveler saw his breakfast—five dishes of steaming oatmeal, accompanied by five miniature pitchers of cream.

The negro beamed with satisfaction at the rapidity with which he had executed the order. The traveler hurriedly ate one dish of the oatmeal, and as he left the dining room the waiter was heard to remark:

"Wonderful what man say he want five dishes o'at!"—Chicago Record-Herald.

Origin of Attar of Roses. The preparation of the famous attar of roses, according to the Circle, seems to have been discovered by accident. From India we get the tradition. A favorite Sultana of Solahgarh caused a bath of rosewater to be prepared for her use. The burning sun of India brought its might upon the bath prepared in the royal garden and soon globules of oil were found floating up on the fragrant water. Deeming the bath impure and attempting to skim off the film, the attendants broke the globules, and at once the garden was filled with fragrance. The finest essence is not gathered from the rarest and most costly flowers, for the fragrant oil glands are most abundant in the petals of the free blooming, old, common kinds.

MONOPOLIES AND RINGS.

Olden Time Schemes For Obtaining Wealth and Power.

The evil of monopolies and rings was known to ancient Aristotle referring to them in his "Politics," and then, as now, it was found necessary to hold them in check by legislation. The monopolist was in Roman law called a dardarius and punished under the Lex Julia de Annona. Monopolies of clothing, fish and all articles of food were prohibited by the Emperor Zeno under pain of confiscation and exile, so that it is certain that the rings of the ancient days were as mischievous as they are now.

At Athens a law limited the amount of corn a man might buy. The earliest recorded instance we have was a corn ring.

There is an ancient tradition that the king who made Joseph his prime minister and committed into his hands the entire administration of Egypt was Apepi. Apepi was one of the shepherds kings and ruled over the whole of Egypt as Joseph's pharaoh seems to have done. The prime minister during seven years of remarkable plenty bought up every bushel of corn beyond the absolute needs of the Egyptians and stored it. During the terrible famine that followed he was able to get his own price and bartered corn successfully for the Egyptian money, cattle and land and, taking one-fifth for pharaoh, made him supremely wealthy. It was not merely a provident act, but a very politic one, his policy being to centralize power in the monarch's hands.—London Answers.
